Must Re-Register For Covina City Election

County Registrar of Voters D. B. Lyon, in a communication received yesterday, points out that Covina city voters will not be able to vote at the local city election on April 10 unless their names have been placed on the new great register of voters.

If any election is held before April 1, he says that the old registration can be used, but inasmuch as the Covina election is ahead of that date there will have to be an entirely new registration of all voters.

Mrs. Henry Clark and Mrs. Edwards are taking registrations, as is also the chamber of commerce, through Mrs. Mary B. Forbes. There is also an opportunity to register at the city hall.

Club Women Hear
Of British MuseumLARGE CROWD HEARS TALK BY MRS. NORTON JOHNSON OF
LOS ANGELES

With a present total membership of almost four hundred, the regular meetings of the Monday Afternoon club are always well attended, with the auditorium of the clubhouse practically filled. Last Monday's meeting was no exception to the rule, and the program was of more than ordinary interest, both as to music and address. Miss Ruth Watson, the youngest member of the club, gave a group of songs which showed great promise. Her full contralto tones were both rich and sweet. Her numbers were "The Sweetest Flower that Blows" (Charles Hawley); "Thy Beaming Eyes" (MacDowell); "Homing" by Arthur Salmon. Miss Watson was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. David Watson.

The clubhouse decorations of acacia and greenery were in charge of Mrs. Seth Colyer, Mrs. Thomas Brunjes and Mrs. Ed Walters. Those in charge of the tea tables were Mmes. Milliken, Aschenbrenner, Ricketts, and Frederick Douglas.

The home economics section will meet next Monday for its regular monthly luncheon. Following the luncheon there will be a demonstration of candy making.

Rowland and Kerr
Matched At Arena

Reggie Kerr, coast champion amateur lightweight, and Charlie Rowland of Puente will be featured as the main event a week from tonight on the boxing program at the American Legion arena in Covina.

This is a match the fans have been looking for, and will undoubtedly be one of the fastest in the history of the series.

Manager Bert Mill also announces that the semi-final will be Soldier Sobol of the Balloon school and Al Andrews of El Monte. Sobol is a favorite boxer in Covina, where he has put up some very interesting battles, while Andrews drew down a decision over DeFont at the last session.

Other contests will be between Thad Warsaw of Covina and Young Rubio of Azusa, a return match; Jake Poole of Covina and Al Jessek of the St. Joe club; Archuleta of Glendora and Al Geyer of the Los Angeles Athletic club. One other bout is to be added, making six bouts of four rounds each.

Grand Larceny Charge
Before Local Justice

Prentice Parish, a young man said to have been employed at the ranch of George Eck in Valencia Heights during a period prior to last September, was arrested in Venice this week, charged with grand larceny, the specific charge being that he appropriated a shotgun, typewriter, rifle and other articles from the Eck ranch and disappeared.

He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Reed in Covina yesterday morning, and his hearing was set for next Thursday. He is being held in the county jail.

Anna Nelson Is Near Death From AccidentTELEPHONE OPERATOR STRUCK
BY MACHINE SUNDAY NIGHT
RALLIES SLIGHTLY.

Indications of improvement in the condition of Miss Anna Nelson were reported yesterday afternoon from the Pomona hospital, where she has lain critically ill with concussion of the skull since she was knocked down by an automobile last Sunday night while on her way to her home on Cypress avenue.

Miss Nelson's life has been almost despaired of, and she has lain unconscious for the greater part of the time since she was struck, but it was said yesterday that she had taken a small amount of nourishment and showed signs of being brighter.

Miss Nelson has been employed in the local department of the Home Telephone Company of Covina. She was on her way home from her work Sunday night, walking in the road, when she was struck by a machine driven by Emmett Edwards, an employee at the A. M. Seelye ranch.

The statement of the accident given is that the girl was passing another machine which was standing by the roadside with a man and girl in it. The Edwards machine came into the glare of the headlights of the car by the roadside just at the time when the girl was in the path of the moving car. It is stated that the man in the roadside car manipulated a spotlight on the approaching Edwards car with the supposed idea of preventing the driven from identifying him. No trace of the occupants of the car by the roadside has been found.

Miss Nelson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Nelson of Covina, and a sister of Mrs. Jack Cone and Mrs. John Berry.

Parent-Teachers Gain
In Membership Drive

With full membership of one hundred and forty, the local Parent-Teacher's association closed its drive for members at the regular meeting held Tuesday, with a total gain of seventy-seven new members, the "blues" winning over the "reds," who must now arrange an entertainment for the association. There was a large attendance at the Tuesday meeting, the kindergarten winning the prize of an indoor baseball for the largest number of mothers (and grandmothers) present.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Mary M. Coman, who told in an interesting way of the history of the juvenile court movement in this country and particularly in this county. As Mrs. Coman is chairman of the county probation committee, in charge of juvenile hall, and in touch with the work of the juvenile court, her account was the outcome of intimate knowledge.

Miss Edwards, principal of the school, also spoke briefly of her work. All were interested to know that officials from the county educational office had spent three entire days investigating the school and left proclaiming it one of the very best in the county, with absolutely no criticism of building, equipment, teaching staff, or pupils.

Edwards & Brandon
Reduce Barber Prices

Edwards & Brandon, barbers at 137 North Citrus avenue, are announcing this week a reduction in prices.

Haircuts henceforth will be thirty-five cents and shaves twenty cents. All other work is also reduced.

"These prices are F. O. B. Covina, war tax paid," said the firm members, yesterday. "We want to cooperate with the people here, and we are going to give them the benefit of this reduction with the same quality of work maintained that has been the case in the past. Reductions are also given on all other work."

THAT NEW ROAD WILL MAKE ANOTHER TRY

Three times the rains have broken up the arrangements that have been made by the chamber of commerce for the viewing of the new road route through the hills by a delegation from the board of supervisors and County Road Commissioner Jones.

However, it cannot rain always, and the arrangements are now under way for another effort to be made the coming week.

Covina Men's Club
Program Next Tuesday

In order to discuss some of the vital questions in connection with the visitation of frost in the Covina valley, the Covina Men's Club next Tuesday night will open its forum to a number of local speakers, a portion of the program which will be presided over by Gordon C. Douglas.

President Harry Gordon announces that the speaker of the evening will be Harry F. Atwood, one of the leading lawyers and orators of the middle-west, who will talk on "Washington and the Constitution."

The supper will be served at the usual hour in the Woman's clubhouse.

Editor's Mother Dies
At Residence HereMRS. J. H. MATTHEWS PASSES ON AFTER PERIOD OF ILL HEALTH
—FUNERAL SATURDAY

After lying for several days in an unconscious condition, following a number of months of critical health, Mrs. J. H. Matthews, mother of the editor of the Argus, died yesterday afternoon about three o'clock at the residence, corner of Second and East College streets. Members of the family, who had been at her bedside during the week, were present when the end came.

Priscilla Harvey Matthews was the widow of the late James H. Matthews, and was a native of Bristol, England. She would have been 73 years old on the tenth of next May. She came to Covina with her husband in 1896. Some years ago her husband died while they were out fishing in a boat at Catalina, and she was called upon to bring the boat in with the body. The shock of this sudden separation had much to do with the breaking up of her health, and during the last few months especially she had been failing rapidly.

During the year 1901 she was secretary of the Monday Afternoon club of Covina, and she was identified with the Baptist church. She leaves three children, who are J. L. Matthews and Miss Lucy Matthews of Covina, and William H. Matthews of Long Beach. There is also an aged sister living, Mrs. L. M. Jefferies of Los Angeles.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the funeral cortege leaving the residence at that hour, and with services in Oakdale cemetery. In the event of rain the services will be held in the Baptist church.

Goodell Is Announcing
New Barber-Shop Firm

Roy A. Goodell, well known barber and enthusiastic booster for sport programs in the Covina valley, is announcing this week that hereafter he will be found presiding over a chair in the barber shop of LeGrande Wilson in the Davis block on Citrus avenue. A new partnership has been formed, to be known as Wilson & Goodell, and will be a three-chair shop.

The same prices that have been in effect in this shop will be maintained, which are twenty cents for a shave and thirty-five cents for a hair-cut, with other work at proportionate prices. Goodell's many friends will be pleased to hear of this new partnership.

Born to Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Reed, on Thursday, a daughter.

Car Crash Victim's
Funeral YesterdayBENJ. E. SHEPHERD OF BALDWIN
PARK, STRUCK BY P. E. CAR, BURIED IN WHITTIER.

At an inquest conducted by Coroner Nance of Los Angeles county at the parlors of Custer & Christiansen on Tuesday of this week, a jury brought in an open verdict of accidental death in the case of Benjamin E. Shepherd of Baldwin Park, who met his death when the automobile he was driving was struck by a Pacific Electric flier at Lark Ellen street last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Shepherd and his wife, the latter being a Pentecostal preacher, have been living at Baldwin Park for the past five months, coming here from Tennessee. Mr. Shepherd was driving the car, and besides his wife, had as passengers Mrs. Zephia Wells and her son, Henry, and Mrs. J. L. Conrad of Baldwin Park.

The rear end of the automobile was struck by the flier, and Mr. Shepherd was thrown out with such force that his head was crushed, resulting probably in instant death. Mrs. Wells and son, Henry, were badly bruised and lacerated. Mrs. Conrad jumped before the impact and was not injured. Mrs. Shepherd was bruised and shaken and prostrated by the shock of her husband's fate.

The funeral was held yesterday morning at the Custer & Christiansen parlors, and was conducted by a Pentecostal preacher from Whittier. There were about fifty friends and members of this faith in attendance. The burial was made in the Whittier cemetery.

Income Tax Return

Yes, I can make it out for you. I am not "certainly" accountant, nor have I ever made out a return for a railroad company or an insurance company. But I have the very latest authorities' interpretations and rulings on the tax law, which, combined with several years' experience in making hundreds of returns, makes me confident I can handle the ordinary cases—individual, partnership, or corporation.

And then there's only one of me to pay.

The sooner we get to work the better. Always crowded the last few days, you know.

San Gabriel Dam Not In State-Wide Plan

CALIFORNIA'S WATER & POWER ACT DOES NOT SPECIFY ANY PROJECT, SAYS COMMITTEE.

The Argus has received a statement from the state campaign committee engaged in furthering California's Water and Power Act, reporting great progress in the organization of units, in various parts of the state, which will carry on the campaign for the adoption of the amendment next November.

"These units have a double purpose," said the statement. "While they are primarily localized campaign organizations, they constitute a state-wide adaptation to and preparation for the act. Each unit centers around a local water or power development project, which is known to be feasible, and which will be made possible by the extension of state credit under the amendment."

"The San Gabriel unit is being built up on the basis of necessary and practicable development on the San Gabriel dam above Azusa. The committee wishes it clearly understood that the act itself does not recognize any particular object, and is merely a legal enactment which will make state credit available for the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of development which has been projected in various parts of the state. However, it is important that the needs and opportunities of various localities should be defined as quickly as possible, so that the newly appointed Water and Power Board may have before it a general survey of the entire state upon which to base its allotment of credit. For this reason it is to the interest of each locality to prepare for this representation to the board. The organization of the different units will provide the means for thus informing the board of the needs of each, and their representations will be laid before the board in petition form."

"One great shortcoming in water and power development in California has been the lack of centralization and coordination, by which problems of each community could be considered in relation to others. The unit plan of organization, focusing on the final representations to the board offers the means by which all California may progress along the highway of a great co-operative movement, to the final solution of its water and power problems."

"Again, the committee wishes to make it clear that the act itself does not provide for the building of any particular project, and that the organization of units is a supplementary undertaking which will serve the double purpose of furthering the campaign and insuring immediate consideration for valid projects after the Water and Power Board is organized. As enemies of the act probably will attempt to distort and confuse the meaning of this plan, it is important that its real purpose be clearly understood."

Knights of Pythias to Observe Anniversary

Knights of Pythias throughout the Pythian world are preparing to observe the fifty-eighth birthday of the order, which falls on the 19th of this month. The proclamation just issued by the supreme chancellor, William Ladew, contains this clause which is of interest to every member of the order:

"It is most fitting that proper celebration of this anniversary be observed upon all occasions, but particularly is this true at this time, because of the phenomenal growth of the order, its growing popularity as a fraternity, and its growth as a fraternal organization."

The order Knights of Pythias is strictly an American institution, and the members of the local lodge of this city are preparing to observe the anniversary of the order's birth in a true American way during the week of February 19th.

"Light In Clearing" At Covina Theater

Coming at the time when the attention of the people is again directed toward the life of Abraham Lincoln, the film play, "The Light In the Clearing," which is played tonight and tomorrow night at the Covina theater, reflects faithfully the life of the American pioneers of the Lincoln period.

It is Irving Bacheller's most successful book made into a film. It is a homey, heart-gripping story of the American forests, and of the struggles of the settlers to establish a civilization in the trackless woods.

C. Gardiner Sullivan's "Hail the Woman," much-heralded picture directed by Thomas H. Ince, comes Monday and Tuesday nights. The story of this play is that of a bigoted New Englander, whose motto was "Men and their sons first." The play shows the manner in which his views were changed, and the triumph of womanhood.

Civil War Veteran Tells Lincoln Story

Abraham Lincoln's birthday brought forth several intimate reminiscences of the Civil war and of Lincoln's life, contributed by citizens of the Covina valley who were intimately associated with those stirring days.

The story of guarding the tomb of Lincoln, as told by James P. Smith, Civil war veteran, in last week's issue of the Argus, is followed by an interesting glimpse into the life of Lincoln by J. B. Raymond of East College street, Covina, who related the story of Lincoln's review of a regiment just after the Battle of Antietam. Mr. Raymond told the story at a meeting held last Sunday evening in the Covina Christian church.

Mr. Raymond was a soldier in the Twelfth Massachusetts Volunteers, known as the "Webster Regiment," because of the fact that it had Fletcher Webster, son of Daniel Webster, as its colonel. The regiment was recruited by a group of prominent Democrats in Boston, and was quartered in old Faneuil Hall in Boston, known as "the Cradle of Liberty."

On the occasion of the regiment's march through New York City on its way to the front, the soldiers sang "John Brown's Body Lies A-Mouldering in the Grave," the first time this famous marching tune had ever been heard. It became one of the great battle songs of the war. They were led by the regimental band that had William J. Martland of Brockton, Mass., as band leader, this band having the distinction of first introducing this spirited song.

Mr. Raymond was in eight battles, which were all in the year of 1862. They were the battles of Cedar Mountain, Va., on August 9; Rappahannock Station, Va., August 21; Thoroughfare Gap, Va., August 28; Manassas (Second Battle of Bull Run), August 30; Chantilly, Va., September 1; South Mountain, Md., September 14; Antietam (Sharpsburg, Md.), September 17; and Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 13. In this last battle Mr. Raymond was wounded in the leg and was in the hospital for three months following. His regiment was in 32 battles. Colonel Fletcher Webster was killed at Manassas.

LINCOLN PRAISES TROOPS.

It was after the terrible battle of Antietam that President Lincoln, on a tour of that front, reviewed the troops, and the men of Mr. Raymond's regiment had the privilege of hearing direct words of praise from the Great Emancipator. Mr. Raymond, in his home in Covina today, says that he remembers Lincoln vividly, and that the occasion was the proudest day of his life. Mr. Raymond was wounded in a battle a few days later.

At the time of Lincoln's visit, Mr. Raymond says that nine companies of his regiment had just emerged from battle. There were but 224 men left in the nine companies, and when they came out of that battle there had been 49 more killed, 165 wounded, ten missing, leaving but thirty-eight of this gallant Massachusetts regiment in line. The next day an additional company came up from a point where they had been performing provost guard duty, making 119 men in line when Lincoln delivered his words of commendation. This was in September of 1862.

Mr. Raymond was mustered out of service on June 26, 1864, after having been kept on detail following his wound at Fredericksburg. Today Mr. Raymond is hale and hearty at eighty-two years of age, as is his wife and companion of all his days since the war. The venerable soldier works actively every day. During the world-war Mr. Raymond got down his army musket and drilled with the home troops in Covina, showing as much activity as any of the younger members of the company.

Mrs. Celia Graham of Rowland avenue is visiting this week with friends in Alhambra.

Kid McCoy Referees

At Legion Arena

The crack and smash of long bamboo swords descending on oriental skulls rose above the din of a shouting audience last Friday night at the fortnightly sporting program of Upper San Gabriel Valley post, American Legion.

It was the Japanese cane-sword battle that aroused the crowd, which was the largest that the arena has held in several months. The battles resemble somewhat the old jousting bouts of the knights of old, but is accompanied by strange yells from the contestants and grunts of pain and pleasure, according to whether the grunts come from the giver or the receiver. Nothing in a long time created such a diversion as this sport, which is new to most of the people of the valley.

The Japs came under the direction of Professor Kuroe of the Japanese Athletic club, and were secured through Bert Mill, local manager of the sports programs. They also put on some classy exhibitions of jui jitsu, which is exciting and filled with breathless interest.
Bert Mill entered the ring with one of the Japs, and after each contestant had flipped his opponent on his back a number of times and each had acquired strangle holds upon the other, the bout was called a draw. Many in the audience said that, for a change, this part of the program was the best they had seen in the series.

In the main boxing event, Earl De Fount of Covina lost the decision to Al
Andrews of El Monte after four rounds of hard slugging. This match was everything that was expected of it. It was hard fought throughout, and the Covina man put up a brand of boxing that gives him much credit. He had the best of the go at the end of the third round, but in the fourth the El Monte youngster came back strong and won the decision.

In the semi-final, Reggie Kerr, Pacific coast lightweight amateur champion, won by a knockout over Tommie Hess, Los Angeles fireman, who was amateur champion of the canal zone during the war. The sleeping pill came in the first round, resulting in some disappointment to the fans, as it was expected that these men were well matched in ability. It was fast while it lasted.

Kid McCoy, for years middle-weight champion of the world, refereed the main event, and got a rousing hand-from the people. The scarred old fighter of hundreds of ring battles seemed popular with the big audience.

The curtain raised with Eddie Brown of El Monte and Alf Rowland of Puente. Brown won in the third round by a decision.

Jake Poole of Covina stopped Earl Dopp of Pomona in two minutes and thirty seconds. This was a fast mill while it lasted, and the Covina boy showed that he is gaining all the time in class. Jake fought four fast rounds at Arcadia last week, the decision going to the Balloon school lad, but a return match is being arranged to take place at the Covina arena, when it is expected that Jake will return the compliment.

Johnny Morales of San Gabriel had too many beef steaks under his belt, or was otherwise incapacitated in his scrap with Kid Layman of the St. Joe club. Morales quit after thirty seconds of punishment. Layman developed a sledge-hammer style that was discouraging.

Thaddeus Warsaw, the genial colored boy of Covina, won his decision over Young Rubio of Azusa in the third round. It was a real mill from the start, with the dancing smoke a favorite because of his classy work. Thaddeus put up the best exhibition of real boxing on the program.

Bert Mill announces that the entertainment next Friday night will contain some new thrills.

Elks To Celebrate

At Mission Play

The Elks of Southern California, upon the suggestion of Alhambra lodge, will celebrate Washington's birthday this year by attending a performance of the Mission play at San Gabriel on the evening of February 22.

Pre-eminently American in its character, the B. P. O. E. pays particular homage to the memory of the Father of our Country, and no more appropriate celebration in his honor could be made than by a visit to the great California historical pageant at San Gabriel which was written and produced by John S. McGroarty, a distinguished member of the order. Frederick Warde, the grand old actor who portrays the leading role of Fray Junipero Serra in the Mission play, is also a distinguished Elk.

At the close of the performance Mr.
Warde, assisted by Elks from the various lodges in attendance, will give the Elks' famous "eleven o'clock toast" from the stage. And, after that, Alhambra lodge will hold a reception in its club house at which Mr. Warde and Mr.
McGroarty will make addresses. Refreshments will be served and there will be dancing.

"I DID IT WITH MY LITTLE HATCHET!"

We Are In the Big Orange Show Again

After being out of it several years, Covina is going to be in the national orange show this year. This exhibition opens officially at 3 p.m. Friday, Feb. 17. It is preceded by a banquet to the exhibitors and others interested, at the Elks' club, which will also claim a Covina delegation.

Covina will have a good section in the united display of fruit made by the fruit-growing towns of the San Gabriel valley association of chambers of commerce, but aside from it she will put on a feature show, a bit of spectacular display which is being done by the Covina chamber of commerce. In the making of this feature show Covina will have the unusual opportunity to command the services of Frank Cox, a man of national note as a scene painter, and known all over the country as a producer of spectacular effects. For ten years he designed the New Orleans Mardi Gras, and during the war he put on the great street pageants by which the government put through its big loan drives in the larger cities of the country, being for nearly two years in the government service, with a free hand in his work. His daughter, Mrs. Leonard, lives in Covina. So Covina gets his best on this occasion; and we just want to whisper to you that if you never saw attractive oranges before, you'll see some in the Covina feature at San Bernardino the next ten days.

In this connection the neat 6-page folder which the Covina chamber of commerce has just published is to be circulated to the crowd by Covina people, who will use this handsome feature as their base of operations. This folder is not pretentious, but it answers a good many questions in a small space, and is expected to make itself generally useful in the Covina publicity campaign.

It is just the size to go into a business envelope, and it is to be at the disposal of the people of Covina, who will aid in its circulation by enclosing it with letters and sending it to persons who may be interested in its contents.

Incidentally, it is of interest to the Covina people who intend to go to the orange show that the entrance fee of 50 cents is cut to 25 cents by purchasing four-admission family tickets at the rate of four for a dollar. The Covina chamber of commerce has them ready for you upon call.

Huntington Mutual In Statement of Condition

To the Stockholders of the Huntington Mutual Oil Co.:

You all want to know what we are doing at the well, and we will try to tell you each week what progress is made and why we do certain things.

Last week we told of our trouble shutting off water. We drilled out the cement Saturday the 11th, and are now 1000 feet deep, and by the time you read this we will be about 1200 feet deep. The water is now cased off at 850 feet, with 10-inch casing cemented.

We want to tell you more about the drilling. For instance, we are drilling every foot of hole twice. We drill 20 feet, then "ream" the same 20 feet down. This is done by running the tools fast, but letting them down slowly. This is a safety measure and insures a good round hole, so that the next string of casing will go in freely.

While we are speaking of that casing, just remember it will be only a few days until we must have about 2400 feet of 8 1/4-inch casing, and then very shortly 3000 feet of 6 1/4-inch. Also, remember that we must have more money so as to pay for those two strings of pipe. Again remember we have the best investment in the oil field, and that the oil business is the best business in the world.

We have the best oil locator known, Mr. Perry Bashore, and by following him we will drill only "producers." By having all producers, big dividends are sure. We don't wildcat. We make every dollar do big duty, and we have only sold about one-tenth of our stock.

We are saving our stock and will only sell a little more to complete this well. Then for the next well we will raise the price because we know it is worth more than ten cents.

Now then, put in all the money you can, and advise your friends to go with us and see what a wonderful property we have. Seeing is believing.

Yours truly,
JESSE BERRY, President
R. E. JOOS, Secretary.

KNOX COURSE FEATURES LECTURE ON MEMORY

"Memory" was the subject of the lecture delivered last night at the high school auditorium by Prof. George H. Knox, before nearly a hundred students of the Covina valley enrolled in his efficiency course. The men and women represent every walk of life and business in the valley.

Members who have enrolled in the course are urged to invite friends who may feel like joining the class. The course is one about which the people enrolled are very enthusiastic, and it is expected that it will be quite a success.

Covina Lyric Club In Pleasing Program

Showing the steady advancement in worth-while song ensemble which has been most gratifying during the past two years, the Covina Lyric club, under the direction of Harry Clifford Lott, gave a successful concert last Friday night in the Woman's clubhouse, with a large audience in attendance.

Besides a number of songs that have been utilized in other concerts, and which were requested for this performance, the club rendered a number of newer and more ambitious numbers that added to the reputation of this organization for the tuneful portrayal of part songs for woman voices.

"May Day Carol," "My Johnnie Was a Shoemaker" and "To Anthea," were the opening numbers, being English folk-songs. "The Wanderer's Evening Song" and "Voices of the Woods," two Rubenstein numbers, were exceptionally well rendered, showing a great amount of attention to technique. Possibly the best numbers from the standpoint of real tunefulness were "Boats of Mine," by Anne Stratton Miller, and "Beat Song," by Harriet Ware, but the group known as negro spirituals were undoubtedly the most popular, including "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Go Down Moses," and "Sinners Don't Let This Harvest Pass." MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose," always popular, was rendered by request, and the singers effected a triumph in the work performed on "The Old Road," by John P. Scott.

Some excellent soprano numbers were furnished by Fannie Lott, and the director sang a group of songs. May Orcutt of Los Angeles appeared as accompanist, while the accompaniment of the club was by Mrs. Harry Danerel, whose work in this concert and in past programs has had much to do with the success of the organization.

Grammar School To Stage Operetta

"Uncle Sam's Visit" is to be played in the grammar school auditorium on Friday and Saturday evenings of February 24-25. Uncle Sam starts on a visit around the world and meets the old woman who lived in the shoe and in turn her many children, representing the various nations. Each country introduced is the basis of a folk song and dance typical of its nation and sung and danced by a child representative and a group of her kinfolk. The operetta gives an ideal opportunity for exhibition of the work being done in the physical training and musical departments of the school. Rehearsals are occupying the greater part of the time of both the physical director, Miss Dorothy Misner, and the musical instructor, Mrs. George Hargraves.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haynes of Ontario were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Barnes of North Second street.

Thanks to the Pacific Electric.

Recent storms have again reminded us that this valley's principal link with points east and west is the Pacific Electric railroad.

There are various fair weather methods of getting in and out of the valley. But "when everything goes dead wrong," even the hobo has to take to the railroad tracks. He can't walk the boulevards because they are bisected here and there by roaring floods that are unbridged. He can't implore a ride from autoists because the drivers themselves have quit the roads and are making use of the electric trains. A river wash, roaring through a dip in the road, is an effectual barrier to automobile travel for an interval. At the height of such storms as we have just experienced, even the old "P. E." is hard put to it to circumvent Jupiter Pluvius, but the railroad keeps running somehow. It transfers passengers across shaky bridges. It does not go home and forget the storm, putting the equipment in the barn, waiting for pleasanter weather. The railroad knows that even greater responsibility rests upon it in times of great stress. It must take care of all the fair weather traffic. The passengers that have been bowling along over the boulevards in busses, congregate at the "P. E." stations and cuss the railroad because the trains may be late that are plowing through the swirl of water, fighting mounds of silt and removing debris.

During the height of the last storm the Covina line of the "P. E." was one of the worst hit of any in Southern California.

It had to cope with the old San Gabriel river, with the San Dimas wash, and with numerous mountain streams that, when at flood, are the means of rendering this valley well-nigh incommunicado with the outside world. Passenger busses do not ply through the Covina valley, even in fair weather, but they do a big business from San Bernardino, Riverside, Redlands and Romona. The bus service was halted. When the boulevards are washed out the bus companies simply quit and wait for fair weather. They are not under contract to keep their right-of-way cleared. The people must do that out of taxation. Bus companies are simply out the amount of money they would have taken in during the period if the storm had not rendered them idle. They lay off their men, and wages cease.

But the railroads increase their help in such times of stress. The editor of this paper had occasion to make the trip to Los Angeles at the height of the flood last Thursday night. The five-twenty local from Covina plowed into the roaring flood between Lark Ellen and Orange avenue when literally hundreds of acres around the tracks constituted a stream-bed for the San Dimas wash at that particular point. The train crew worked the car through when the water was up to the second step. At every call-box on the line there was an extra man stationed. The traffic was being directed by the chief dispatcher from Los Angeles, who was in constant touch with these men who labored in the pouring rain and icy chill. These men themselves were marooned, in many instances without food for the time of their lonely, dangerous watch in the midst of the flood-waters. The "P. E." had gangs of laborers on the washes, fighting the water with sacks and sand, throwing debris from the tracks, all on the company payroll. And, while the service was badly demoralized, they got the people through somehow, even numbering among them the bus drivers who were marooned in the east end of the valley and were anxious to make it back home to their families in Los Angeles. The "P. E." got the freight through, both that which they ordinarily carry and all that the "Ship by Truck" people couldn't deliver. The "P. E." carried the mails.

When the waters receded, the trucks and passenger busses started out again over the people's highway, competing with the railroad that pays its taxes to the state, and which maintains its own right-of-way. Trucks and busses started pounding the roads of the people to pieces again, the roads which the people must keep in constant repair.

When are we going to wake up and put a tonnage-mileage tax on these trucks and busses that will pay for the repairs to the highways? Isn't it strange that we go on putting up the money for this highly-expensive maintenance only to have it destroyed by commercial concerns paying only a nominal vehicle tax that in no sense meets the expense? The hundreds of thousands of automobiles that pass over our boulevards do not wear out the roads in ten years as much as this truck and bus traffic does in three months. There's something radically wrong with the system, and with our sense of justice.

In the state of Washington pedestrians walk on the left side of the boulevards where there are no sidewalks. This rule has saved many accidents.

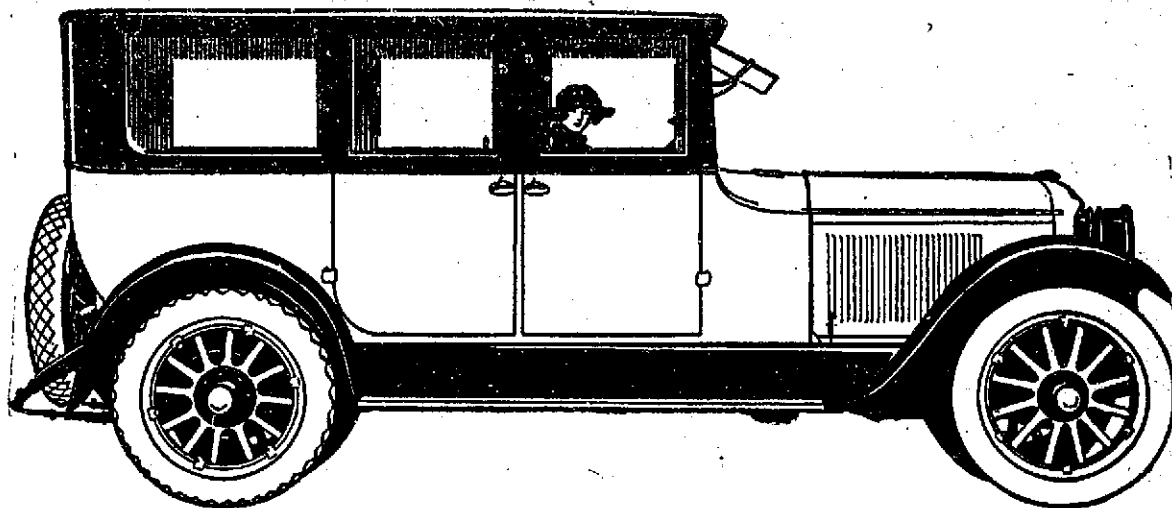

If a person walking is on the left side, the car that is approaching and keeping to the right-hand side can see the pedestrian under the full light of the automobile lamps. The pedestrian can see the approaching automobile and can step still farther to the left, clearing the way. The pedestrian is in no danger of being struck by a machine approaching from the opposite direction.

When pedestrians keep to the right they are constantly in the path of automobiles that are also keeping to the right. Their backs are turned to the approaching machine. They often swerve into the middle of the street and are hit by machines in front of them while dodging a machine coming up behind them.

"Pedestrians Keep to the Left," is a warning that should be put up on our boulevards for mutual safety. It might well be made a state law, applicable on all roads where there are no sidewalks.

PAIGE

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA

The New Reduced Prices— Your Opportunity

Paige cars are today a rare investment opportunity. All models, on both the 6-66 and 6-44 chassis, have been reduced in price to a point that is truly sensational. And, despite the great price reductions, these cars are finer, handsomer, sturdier cars than they ever were before.

There can be little argument about "price" when a seven passenger 6-66 is available for $2195—or a five passenger 6-44 for $1465. On any basis of comparison, these figures mean astounding dollar-for-dollar value. They mean, we repeat, investment Opportunity—just that.

But judge for yourself. See the complete Paige line and look for the double advantage of increased quality and decreased price. Then act as your judgment dictates.

Edison Stockholders Get Quarterly Dividend

Six hundred and thirty-four stockholders in the Monrovia district of the Southern California Edison Company, which includes the important towns of Monrovia, Arcadia, Azusa, Sierra Madre, Glendora, Covina, and Baldwin Park, received checks today for their first quarterly dividends for 1922 on the stock which they own. The total amount paid out by the Edison Company in dividends for this quarter amounts to $621,000, was the statement made by District Manager Fred Schwartz today. The company has 20,789 consumer stockholders in its twenty-eight districts, in addition to approximately 4100 employee stockholders, bringing the total stockholders residing in the territory served by the company to 24,889. Only approximately 2000 shareholders of the company reside outside of the territory which it serves, which increases the total number of dividend checks to 26,889.

In making this statement, District manager Schwartz quoted statistics of the stock selling activity of the company during the past year, from a communication received from Vice-President A. N. Kemp, in charge of finances, which indicates that of all the public service corporations in the country, the Southern California Edison Company is taking the lead in associating its consumers as partners in the organization which supplies them with their electric requirements.

In this communication, Mr. Kemp says that during the past year the company financed development and extensions for over $17,000,000 from the sale of its common stock at a price only slightly below par, at a time when the general market reached its lowest level in industrial and utility securities. The sales during 1921 were made at retail by the company through its own securities department and its employees' organization, and by advertising in daily and weekly newspapers in the cities and towns where the company operates.

The company also sold $11,000,000 par value of bonds, making its total financing for the year approximately $28,000,000. During this period it gained 18,156 new stockholders.

On February 1 the company began limiting the amount of stock to be purchased by any subscriber to twenty shares. It fixed the amount of stock to be sold during 1922 at 75,000 shares, and judging by the present demand, it would all be disposed of in a short time, if the limitation as to the amount sold to one person had not been made. The idea of limiting the sales was to make the stock available to the greatest number of people. There was a great demand for the company's stock in the eastern market and through the country at large, but the heavy local sales to consumers preclude large blocks being taken outside of the territory which the company serves. The effect has been of adding twenty California stockholders to every one in the East.

In commenting upon unusual records for stock sales, Vice-President Kemp stated to District Manager Schwartz: "Care has been taken to maintain the business of the corporation in such a manner that it would win the confidence of the public. We have always been conservative in our financing, paid special attention to the service given the people—in other words, have been a servant 'of the people, by the people' in every sense of the word."

District Manager Schwartz said that during this year the company expects to spend $22,534,000 for new water power plants and distributing lines to provide for the expected addition of 50,000 new consumers. Of the total construction expenditures, over $10,000,000 will go for labor, in addition to the regular operating pay roll of $5,500,000. Many millions of dollars for the purchase of supplies of all kinds will be necessary. Nearly all of these can now be obtained from the local market, but until great machinery factories, steel mills and copper wire plants are located in Southern California, it will be necessary to place orders for large machinery and appliances in the East.

If You Have a Slogan Handy, Let's Have It

The chamber of commerce has in hand a fair-sized sheaf of slogans, submitted in the present friendly contest for the cash prize of $20 offered by the chamber of commerce for the best slogan of the lot.

But doubtless there are more slogans in embryo here in and round about Covina. It is not given to every man, or woman, to hit off a million-dollar winner like Uneda cracker; such a centershot as that happens only once in a while, and usually a long while; yet few will doubt that the slogan that may come out of this contest—the one we are confidently expecting will come—will prove a winner for Covina and may be as happy a hit as any trademark that ever made an owner rich!

The original slogan was the rallying cry, the battle shout, of the Highland clans. As the old Gaelic has it, it meant the army yell. In any form it was the name of a rallying cry of men engaged in a warfare; the electrifying call of a regiment in the act of charging upon the enemy. It signifies a united front to a foe, and a determined rush forward to conquer the difficulties and go over the top of obstacles. It is a clarion call to action, no matter what the opposition confronted. A town that has a good slogan, with a punch to it, and that lives up to that slogan, gets somewhere ahead. A slogan that hits on all six cylinders gives its people speed and power and endurance. A real slogan is a mighty good thing.

The Covina chamber of commerce has offered $20 in cash for the slogan selected as the one we need in our business. The contest runs to the end of this month, and is open to all comers, no matter who or where. Send your slogan, and your name with it but securely sealed. The handy way is to write the slogan on the outside of an envelope, with your name and address sealed inside that envelope, and send that envelope in another which is addressed to the chamber of commerce.

By way of accelerating the action in this matter of hammering out a winning slogan from the dormant gray matter under your hat, send these, from the slogans so far submitted:

Covina, the city of no regrets.

Stafford Is Appointed Busch Garden Trustee

Attorney Dailey S. Stafford of Covina has been appointed a member of the board of trustees of the Busch Gardens estate in Pasadena, the trustees acting in the interest of the ex-service men of the state.

All revenue from admissions taken at the gates of the Busch Gardens is utilized for the rehabilitation of ex-service men, and is apportioned among the various Legion posts and other organizations of veterans. Attorney Stafford takes the place of Walter K. Tuller, resigned, and the other members are Burton R. Pitts of Los Angeles and Allen Bixby of Pasadena.

Five-Fold Measure Indorsed By Chamber

Commander Gordon C. Douglas of the Upper San Gabriel Valley Post, American Legion, of Covina, introduced a resolution at the meeting of the Covina chamber of commerce board of directors on Tuesday of this week, which was a recommendation that the Five-Fold Adjusted Compensation Act, now before congress, become a law.

The resolution was unanimously adopted, and it was ordered that copies of it be sent to Congressman Walter F. Lineberger of this district, and to Senators Johnson and Shortridge.

As explained by Commander Douglas, who is also a member of the chamber of commerce board of directors, the five-fold act contains provisions not only for a cash bonus to ex-service men, but is principally designed to provide educational courses instead of cash, also homes and homesteads. It is planned that instead of the soldier asking for the cash he will be induced to apply his compensation on the taking up of a farm, or the purchase of a home. There is also a method of obtaining insurance.

The chamber directors were heartily in favor of indorsing this plan. The resolution was also advocated by Irven G. Reynolds, a chamber director who is chairman of the executive committee of the local legion post.

TODAY'S IMPERATIVE TASK.

William Jennings Bryan.

We must enforce the law. Laws are not self-enforceable. As long as it is profitable for a human to violate the law, the law will be violated. A law that is never violated may almost be called an unnecessary law. The more a law is violated the more apparent its necessity. We have a law against murder; it is violated and, therefore, we must have officials who, having no sympathy with murder, will be ready to prosecute those who violate it. We have a law against stealing; it is violated and, therefore, we must have officers who have no sympathy with thieves in order to secure the enforcement of this law. And so there are laws on other subjects. The law is the voice of the community and the officer is the arm of the community, acting in sympathy with the voice.

The believers in prohibition must be on the alert to see to it that the enforcement of the law is not entrusted to those who are in sympathy with its violation. We have secured a great advantage in prohibiting the manufacture, as well as the sale of beverage liquors, because we have overthrown the citadel of lawlessness. The brewers' associations have stood back of the violations of the law, and furnished the money to carry on the campaigns for the election of officials pledged in advance to lawlessness. While the manufacture of intoxicating beverages was permitted, these men could meet publicly and pass resolutions threatening politicians who dared to favor prohibition, but their power to threaten is gone and the coercion is now on the other side. The very politicians who used to be afraid of offending the brewers will now be afraid of offending the sentiment that supports the law. The bootleggers cannot organize national or even state associations. They are as powerless as the pickpockets when it comes to organized action. There can be no concerted action among the violators of a law embodied in the national constitution. But while our task is made easier it is still necessary to provide the machinery for enforcing the law and to be careful of selecting the officials who are to prosecute violators of the law.

We must continue the educational work in favor of total abstinence.

In its last analysis prohibition must rest upon the conviction that alcohol is injurious, and this must be taught to each generation. It will be easier to teach this when drinking is no longer fashionable in politics, in business or in society. But the educational work must go on in order that each year may find the sentiment more and more nearly unanimous.

We must help the world outside. Christianity would not grow in the United States if our churches were not interested in missionary work. A man cannot enjoy religion without wanting to bring others the knowledge of the blessings which he has received. And so, having abolished the saloon on the theory that total abstinence will be a blessing to our country, we cannot fully enjoy that blessing without desiring to communicate to others a knowledge of the benefits received. There must be complete enforcement of the law giving to our country the maximum good derivable from total abstinence, and we must not only send abroad those who can explain what prohibition is in practice, but we must invite representatives from other countries to come here and see for themselves what has been wrought by the overthrow of the drinking-place.

YOU'LL SOON KNOW WHERE COVINA IS SITUATED

In about three weeks the handsome electric signs ordered by the chamber of commerce will be erected and connected up, one at Citrus and San Bernardino road, and the other at Citrus and Badillo avenues. Each one will be 30 inches high by sixteen feet long, displaying the name "Covina" in 24-inch day-and-night letters. Each side of each sign will be illuminated with 55 10-watt lamps. So the wayfarer man will no longer be in the dark as to just where and when he passed Covina.

The city takes over and maintains these signs which the chamber of commerce is buying. The investment is considerable, but it will last a long time.

Established Brands

There are established brands of goods whose products are so well known and in such demand that the factory products are sold many months ahead. There is no question of the value of these goods and no question of the price. The consumer receives full value for his money.

You do not see Stetson hats on sale at half-price, nor Holeproof hose, nor Ball brand boots, nor Cadet hose, nor Irish poplin, nor hundreds of standard lines we sell.

When the public see their way clear to buy quality and abstain from seeking price tickets, they will come nearer getting what they buy.

In a recent issue of the Fort Dearborn Independent, Henry Ford has an article on this subject it would pay everyone to read.

HOSE OF HOLEPROOF AND LUXITE

A new shipment this week, including out-sizes, which have been extremely scarce. And whether you pay 25c or $10 for your hose, you can't find better value than here.

SHOES

An arch-support shoe and oxford of unusual value—for women.

200 pairs men's shoes—Packard, Civilian, Mayer, values $8.50 to $11.50, at $5.85.

MEN'S SHIRTS

A business man has complained to us that we ask $2 for a 95c shirt. He admits that the 95c shirt has no brand or maker's name. However, it's easier to get shirts to sell at 95c than the better grades. We have dress shirts at 95c and they are good shirts, too, but we feel sure you will find it cheaper to buy the better grades.

Lee Koverall Khaki Suits—make offer.

Men's Clothing—make offer.

Chamber of Commerce
Urges Revaluation

The Covina chamber of commerce, at the meeting on Tuesday of this week, took up the matter of an adjustment of valuations in the citrus district by the county assessor, passing the following resolution:

"Whereas, the recent freezing has inflicted a heavy loss upon the citrus industry, in the destruction of crop, decline in realty value, and actual damage to trees, be it

"Resolved, by the Covina chamber of commerce, that the county assessor be, and hereby is, requested to afford such relief to the owners of damaged citrus trees, in the form of an abatement of the 1922 assessment upon said trees, as shall appear upon competent and careful survey, to be proper and equitable; and be it

"Resolved that the county assessor be, and hereby is, requested to give due consideration, in the making of subsequent assessments of citrus trees, to such considerable damage, or lack of physical condition and actual value, as shall be fairly chargeable to the injury sustained by said trees in the recent severe freezing; and be it

"Resolved that the board of supervisors be, and hereby are, requested to arrange for such additional means as the county assessor may require in the making of the tree damage appraisal above requested, to the end that the regular work of the assessor's office shall not be burdened by an increase of expense."

It is understood through interviews had with Assessor Hopkins that he contemplates the making of a general downward valuation on citrus groves because of the frost damage.

The young ladies' missionary society of the Methodist church entertained with a Valentine social at the church parlors on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Insley of Barranca street entertained as a luncheon guest on Thursday Mr. Greer of Imperial valley.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, it is the will of Almighty God that Mrs. Ida M. Morris be removed by death from our midst, be it therefore Resolved, that we, members of the Men's League of the Presbyterian church, do hereby express our sympathy to the bereaved husband, Galenus Morris, and family, and voice our appreciation of her sterling qualities as a wife and mother and as a member of our church.

Her extreme devotion to family and her family's needs will long be remembered by her friends and loved ones as one of the most earnest features of her Christian career during the years of her connection with this church.

Resolved furthermore, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy be published in each of the two Covina papers, and a copy spread upon the minutes of this meeting.
